Brother Crowe

Brother Crowe is a Detroit-based, Bluegrass-leaning Celtic Roots Rock band known for its original music and energetic live performances. Formed in 2002, the band has gone through several transformations, but its roots in Celtic music and passionate rock energy have remained constant. Currently, the band features Derek Wikarski (lead vocals, harmonica, mandolin), Paul Wikarski (guitar, banjo, fiddle), Stephen Vilnius (bass), Bob Gilbert (drums), and Steve Lesko (fiddle). They've shared the stage with renowned acts like Tommy Makem, Gaelic Storm, and Derek Warfield, and have performed at prestigious festivals such as the Cleveland Irish Cultural Festival and the Michigan Irish Music Festival. Their energetic festival performances continue to captivate audiences with spontaneity and crowd engagement, making them perfect for the 56th Alma Highland Festival.

Pictus

Pictus is a high-energy, one-of-a-kind musical experience that brings together the primal power of drums and the soaring sounds of the Highland bagpipes to captivate audiences across the country. With award-winning bagpiper John "Tallisyn" Holland and seasoned drummers Brad "Oengus" Sprauer and Lauren "Céilidh Shillelagh" Berry, Pictus creates an unforgettable performance full of thunderous rhythms, soulful melodies, and tales that stir the spirit. Their shows blend traditional instruments like the Irish pennywhistle, dudelsack, and rauchefife with original compositions, all wrapped in a narrative that speaks to the voices of our ancestors. From thrilling drumming to stirring bagpipe melodies, Pictus invites you to stand, shout your barbaric YAWP, and be transported by their powerful sound and storytelling. Don't miss this dynamic performance at the Alma Highland Festival!
